ENGLAND DECLARES WAR ON TURKEY

TURKISH TROOPS ARE BEING MOBILIZED

Given No Time to Reform and Amalgamate After Being Flooded Out by The Opening of the Dykes and Canal by the Belgians—Denial That Verdun Has Been Destroyed—French Army Still Bars the Man to That City—Expect Germans to Be Driven From Belgian Coast Within a Week—Indications of a Retreat.

(By International News Service)
London, Nov. 2.—"The way to Bruges is now open to the allies, owing to the capture of the Roulois, and the Germans are digging trenches behind Ghent with feverish energy. To do this is to announce their retreat."

This statement is made in the Observer in a dispatch dated "near the Franco-Belgian frontier." The message continues:

German Loss Enormous
"Their (the German) losses have been enormous. A German officer captured yesterday estimates that there have been 150,000 killed or wounded since the occupation of Ostend in Northern Flanders alone. While batteries and battalions have been annihilated by the shell fire from the warships. Thousands have been drowned as the result of the opening of the dykes. In hand to hand fighting the German losses have far exceeded those of the allies. Thousands of bodies of Germans floating on the inland sea bear buyonet wounds."

Abandon Their Wounded
"Only the main roads and railroad tracks remain exposed above the flooded area. The shattered German regiments are being given no time to reform and amalgamate. They are abandoning their wounded, guns and transports. Unless their fleet comes out to create a diversion they will be driven from the Belgian coast within a week."

Verdun Not Destroyed
A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Paris says:
"It is officially announced that, contrary to the German statement that the town of Verdun had been destroyed, the fact is, it never has been struck by a single shell. Fort Douaumont only was bombarded for twenty-four hours at long range and without any appreciable damage having been done."

"The French army still has the road to Verdun."

"Reports of German victory in the West of Angoulême and elsewhere are wholly false."

CONGRESSMAN WANGER SPEAKS FOR PINCHOT

Norristown, Nov. 2.—Irving P. Wanger, for eighteen years Republican member of congress from this district and the election of Gifford Pinchot to the United States senate, in a speech here Saturday night, he denounced the greedy manufacturers who have neglected the chance to solve the foreign trade opened by the European war thus they might yell calamity and work for Penrose.

Mr. Wanger said Pinchot is the only opponent of Penrose for whom Independents and Republicans should vote. He told of a letter he wrote to A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee, in which he said that Palmer was a Republican until he went to Stroudsburg to practice law. Wanger's letter asked Palmer to withdraw. He declared that Palmer has not always been a leader of movements for righteousness in politics, and said that since the reorganization movement in the Democratic party Palmer has become "the most arrogant boss in a generation."

Pittsburgh Hit Hard By Order

(By International News Service)
Pittsburgh, Nov. 2.—No cattle are permitted to be driven through the streets. There are nearly 3,000 cattle on Herra island, all being fed from above. Attendees are wearing rubber suits.

Everything is being fumigated and visitors are shut off. The officials believe the situation is still in their hands.

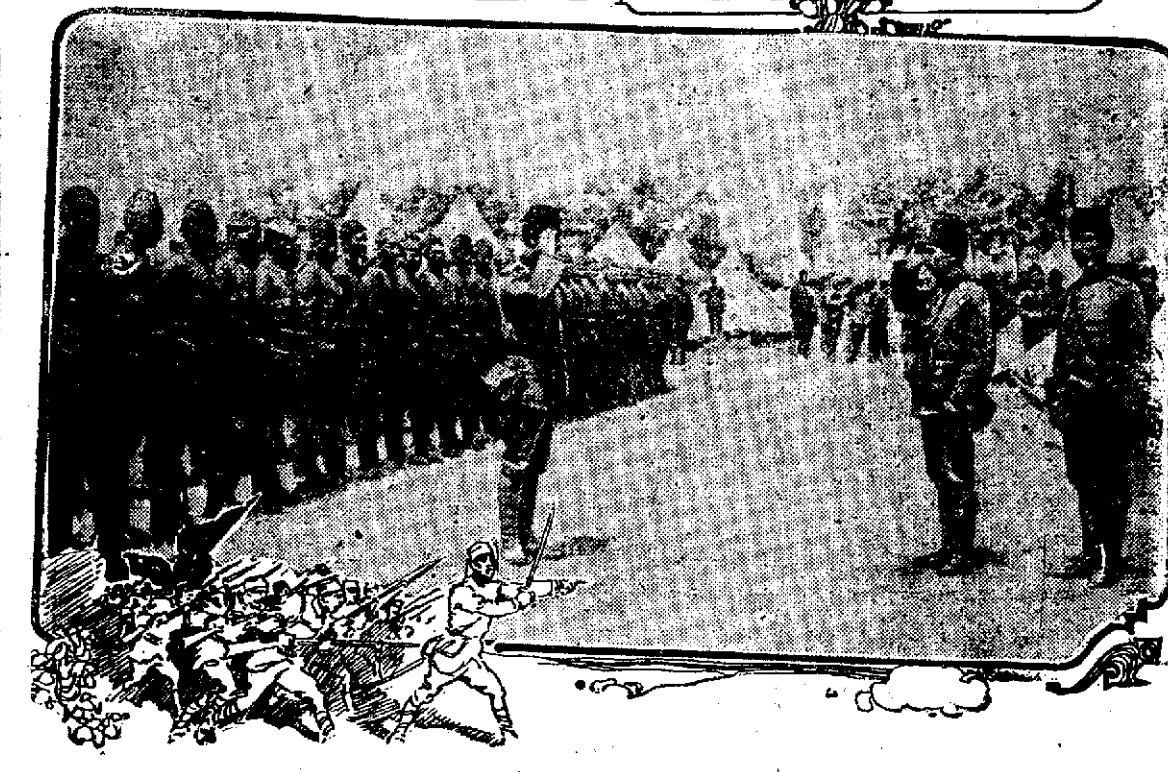

All cattle sold must be slaughtered within 72 hours.

ENTERTAINMENT AT Y. M. C. A. ON THE NIGHT OF ELECTION

The evening, in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, an entertainment will be given by the Italian Conservatory of Music. This entertainment will consist of songs, violin and piano solos, sketches, and scenes from modern and classic plays. Election returns will be given and as fast as they are received over the wire. The admission will be ten cents.

Of the Italian Conservatory of Music Trio entertained a large number of the Central Presbyterian church last evening with instrumental and vocal selections, and an excellent reading of "The Tenth Hour of the Shrew," in which all three members of the company participated.

The program was a varied and most pleasing one, and the audience large despite the weather.

National Republicans Declare He Should Be Defeated

TO RID PARTY OF DISGRACE

Praise for Gifford Pinchot From Men Who Have Always Stood High in the G. O. P. But Who Now See in Penroseism a Menace to Both the Party and the Country.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Boise Penrose goes before the people of Pennsylvania for election to the United States senate formally repudiated by the leaders of the national Republican party.

The spokesmen for the best element of the Republicans not only have urged the defeat of Penrose to relieve the party of further disgrace, such as Penroseism has brought on, but they have openly urged that the support of Gifford Pinchot by Republicans is the only way in which the national party can be saved.

Within the last three days have come the most noteworthy examples of this trend of real Republicans to free their party from the stigma of Penroseism.

Urges Penrose's Defeat

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war under President Taft; Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior under President Taft; and many other prominent Republicans have expressed their opposition to Penroseism.

ELECTION RETURNS

CLEARFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

DEFEATS HUNTINGTON

A direct telegraph wire was installed in the Progress office today, which will furnish the people of Clearfield with the complete results of the election tomorrow. A moving picture stereopticon will flash the reports in the Progress' front window as fast as they are received. This service will start as soon as the Opera house and Y. M. C. A. close for the night and will continue till morning.

The local high school football team added another well earned victory to its credit Saturday at the Driving park when it defeated Huntington.

The visitors took a brace after being scored on in the first period and pushed the ball all the way to a number of spectacular touchdowns, but when on the Clearfield 7 yard line Cochrane intercepted the pass which gave Clearfield the ball. From then on throughout the game the local boys had their opponents completely outplayed.

The game was replete with brilliant and sensational work by the local players, and the victory was a well deserved one. The team exhibited more work and concentration of effort than ever before this season.

MEAT FAMINE IS NOW THREATENED

Chicago Packers Prohibited from Slaughtering Cattle

WILL HIT EASTERN MARKETS

Order Made Necessary by Possibility of Spread of Foot and Mouth Disease—Railroads Enjoined from Hauling Livestock for Chicago and St. Louis and Points in the East.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Slaughtering cattle at the Union stock yards here and at the National stock yards, in East St. Louis, Ill., will cease after today, owing to the discovery of several cases "foot and mouth" disease. This drastic action was taken, not because the disease is presently epidemic, but because prompt precautionary measures are necessary. The order is expected to create a temporary meat famine in America.

Another order was issued to all railroads, notifying them to cease loading livestock for Chicago, St. Louis, and all eastern markets. All livestock in transit for these points will be diverted to other markets.

Small slaughtering plants in Chicago and Packingtown proper are not allowed to kill today. These rulings are a blow to the eastern markets, which are practically dependent on Chicago for cattle for slaughtering and packing.

The bureau of animal industry sent here this morning an emergency order to the hoof and mouth quarantine stations, and to the Washington office for approval of the order.

REFORMED DRUNKARD TELLS STORY OF LIFE

J. Arthur Schlichter, of Philadelphia, addressed the Bible class in the Trinity M. E. church yesterday morning at 9:30, spoke in the Presbyterian church at 10:30, at the opera house at 3:30 yesterday afternoon and in the West Side M. E. church last evening. These meetings were conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Schlichter thrilled his audience with his story. There was hardly a dry eye among all the men who heard him. His subject was, "My Strange Life." He was a minister's son. While at college he was invited by a girl to a party of six. She served whiskey and told him to drink it and not be a coward; it would make him feel good. That was his first social glass. He said: "Perhaps some men can take a glass now and then and leave it alone, but for God's sake don't risk it." He spent $50,000 for booze, and nineteen years was a vagabond drunkard. He was rescued by the Rev. Ranvierre, at a time when he was taking 30 grains of morphine a day, and taken in charge by John Mackin-tree, of the Who So Ever Mission, of Philadelphia. It took three years to restore him to health and strength. At the end of that time he returned to his former home to find that his father had died of a broken heart and his wife had divorced him and remarried.

Indictments Against Alleged Conspirators

(By International News Service)
New York, Nov. 2.—Criminal indictments charging that they combined and conspired to monopolize commerce in transportation were returned by the federal grand jury today against William G. Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Theodore N. Vail, George F. Baker, John Billard and sixteen other financial and industrial leaders.

The indictments are the result of an investigation of the New Haven railroad system.

The indictment names 160 corporations.

Bedouins Penetrate Egypt
A dispatch from Constantinople states that 2000 armed Bedouins (Turks) have penetrated Egypt. British warships with 25,000 troops are patrolling the Suez canal. Eight corps of Turks, mobilized for the Egyptian campaign, are reported to be massed in Palestine and along the Sinai peninsula.

Greece Mobilizing Her Troops
Greece is mobilizing her troops on a complete war footing.

Rome sends a dispatch stating that 400,000 Turks are on the Caucasus border and that 300,000 are waiting at Beirut, Jaffa and elsewhere for shipment to the Sinai peninsula.

Bulgaria in Angry Mood
Disquieting reports come from the Balkans, where Bulgarian resentment over the humiliation by Greece and Serbia is flaming.

The dispatches reaching here indicate the formation of a war cabinet at Constantinople, with General Enver Pasha, who is strongly pro-German, in control.

Were Prepared for Move
Neither Russia nor Great Britain was unprepared for this move by Turkey which, government officials say, was known to have been under the influence of Germany and the allied powers have forces on hand ready to oppose a Turkish invasion.

When the regular forces were withdrawn from Egypt to take part in the war in Europe, they were immediately replaced by troops from home, much greater in numbers at least, and only last week they paraded through the streets of Cairo, making a splendid impression.

Muslim Attitude Both
The problem both for England and Russia, however, is the attitude of their Muslim subjects who, under ordinary circumstances, would prefer not to fight against Turkey.

In this war, however, they have rallied to their flag as have all other races under British or Russian rule and care is being taken to explain to them that in this case, Turkey, under the direction of Germany, has been the aggressor.

Soft green the crowning trees

COL. ROOSEVELT'S BOMB STARTLES MILITARY MEN

New York, Nov. 2.—Political and military circles were exercised Saturday over the identity of the two nations whose war plans for selling American ports Colonel Roosevelt says he has seen. Colonel Roosevelt's reference to the "definite plans" of two nations against the ports of New York and San Francisco was made Friday in a speech at Princeton. His words were:

"I, myself, have seen the plans of two of the countries now engaged in the European war to invade the United States, capture our greater cities and hold them for ransom, considering that our standing army was too small to be dangerous. . . . I have seen the definite plans for the capture and ransoming of New York and San Francisco."

To a reporter who asked him about it Saturday, he said that his speech had been correctly quoted and made it plain that he had not the slightest modification to make on his statement, but he would not amplify it at the present time.

"That was my statement, substantially correct," said the Colonel. "I cannot take time to amplify it at present. In a week or so, however, I hope to make that statement the subject of more exact explanation."

One guess at the Colonel's two nations was made everywhere at once—Japan. The other, by the only clue given in his speech, must also be picked from the list—Germany. Great powers also now at war.

Army officers at Washington expressed belief that Colonel Roosevelt referred to the general war strategy plans of foreign countries for use in case of war with the United States and not to any immediate plans. They point out that the war college has similar plans of attack against every country which the United States might possibly become involved.

EVERY VICIOUS ELEMENT IS BACK OF PINCHOT

Philadelphia, Nov. 2, 1914.
Dear Sir:
This is addressed to you if you are a decent respectable citizen intending to support Penrose in this campaign believing that his election will improve business conditions. I am certain you are mistaken in your assumption that Penrose's election means business prosperity. But let us suppose for argument's sake you are right.

The liquor element will see that every liquor vote is gotten to the polls tomorrow and that every supporter of booze votes for Penrose and Brumbaugh. The rum element recognizes this as its most desperate battle, and the influence and money of the rum element will be used to get out the Penrose vote. But the fight will go against Penrose if the people who believe in the destruction of rum domination, in the preservation of honest government and in the overthrow of

Predicts Big Victory For Washington Party

A magnificent victory for the Washington party and good government tomorrow is predicted by A. Nevin Detrich, chairman of the Washington party state committee.

Mr. Detrich's forecast gives Gifford Pinchot from 425,000 to 450,000 votes to snow Penrose under, and brings Vance C. McCormick to Philadelphia with a majority of 200,000 over Brumbaugh.

"Mr. Pinchot will be elected to the United States senate," says Mr. Detrich, in his statement, "by a vote of at least 42 1-2 per cent of the total vote cast, and his vote will likely reach 45 per cent. On the basis of 1,000,000 votes, this means that Mr. Pinchot will receive from 425,000 to 450,000 votes.

"Vance C. McCormick will be the next governor of Pennsylvania. His aggregate vote on the Washington and Democratic tickets will be so big as to bury the Republican-Personal Liberty candidate, and McCormick will come to Philadelphia ahead of Brumbaugh by 200,000.

"Penrose will be snowed under, and he knows it.
"The persistent campaign of the Washington party and the quiet determination of the independent citizenship of the state to wipe out every vestige of Penroseism received their final strength in the triumphant tour of Pennsylvania of Colonel Roosevelt. The Roosevelt trip proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that the same force which carried the state for him and his principles in 1912 will carry the state for the Roosevelt principles and the Washington party in 1914.

"The claims of Penrose and his assistants that they will receive any considerable number of votes in Pennsylvania are absurd. The Penrose cohorts will depend very largely upon old-time election day methods and hope for many votes through these channels, but repeaters, bought votes and stuffed clubs cannot undo the determination of the decent people of the state to kill Penroseism.

"Victory for decency is assured."

Penrose is a moral issue. To save our state from his corrupt and criminal combination is not a question of party politics but of civic decency.

But while we condemn Penrose and his associates, let us be fair. The worst feature of our present political condition is not Penrose. Neither is it the serious injury to the national prosperity of the state resulting from incapacity, graft and corruption at Harrisburg. It is not even the fact that the Penrose organization is opposing every effort to prevent corruption at elections, or the fact that at the instance of evil special interests it has defeated or mutilated every law proposed to give our workers, men, women and children that measure of protection and justice which they have secured elsewhere, not only in England, her colonies and in Europe, but in every other or great industrial state of the United States.

Bad as these things are, the curse of Penroseism is a moral degradation, resulting not from Penrose and his associates, but from the support which he and his corrupt organization receive from our leading citizens.

I have taught in the leading law school of this state for eighteen years. I have come into intimate personal contact with the best class of young men at the formative period of their lives, and have watched with keen interest the forces which build up and those which undermine character. I therefore speak out of an abundant practical experience when I say that if our sons are expected to live up to the virtues which we preach to them, our so-called respectable people must cease supporting crooked politics on the plea that crooked politicians in power will help their business.

To-day Penrose has behind him every vicious element in the community. This is to be expected. But it is a shame and a disgrace that he also has the support of dozens of men prominent in the business and professional world. These men think it beneath them to enter politics; but they lend their name as members of citizens' committees.

Any man prominent in financial or in professional life who is also active in church and philanthropic work whose name is on one of these committees is doing more to bring religion into contempt and destroy the ideals of civic righteousness and personal honor in the community than hundreds of crooked politicians. He is using his very virtues to corrupt others.

It is true today, it always has, it always will be true that we can't Christ and practice the gospel of Christ and practice the gospel of Mammon.

Sincerely yours,
William Draper Lewis.

BRUMBAUGH WARNED TO GET OFF THE RUM TICKET

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—It became known Saturday that influential friends of Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh several weeks ago warned him to get off the "Personal Liberty party ticket." These friends were fearful that Brumbaugh's candidacy would be seriously injured by such an open affiliation with the liquor interests.

"The 'Personal Liberty party' is the rum auxiliary of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, which nominated Brumbaugh as its candidate for governor. Brumbaugh asserted this was done without his knowledge, but he made no effort to withdraw his name until it was too late to do so.

One of the men who warned Brumbaugh against having anything to do with the "Personal Liberty party" was the Rev. J. A. Myer, a professor in Juniata College, at Huntingdon, Pa. Brumbaugh was formerly president of that institution.

"When stories first began to appear in the newspapers concerning the Personal Liberty party," said Doctor Myer, "I wrote to Doctor Brumbaugh and advised him to get off the ticket of that party. Doctor Brumbaugh wrote back that he had no knowledge of the actions of any set of men, other than the Republican party."

"Be silent!" the girl cried sharply. "I command here—if it's necessary to tell you."

There was a pause of astonishment. Then the old man broke out in exasperation that threatened to wax into fury. "Judith! What do you mean by this? Has it indeed come to this that my own daughter defies me to my face?"

"Apparently!" she shot back with a short laugh. "Judge for yourself!" "Have you forgotten your vow to me?"

"No. But I take it back and cancel it: that is my privilege, I believe. Silence!" she stormed, and he strove to gain his bearings. "Silence—do you hear?—or it will be the worse for you!"

As well command the sea to still its voice, her father raged like a mad man that he was, for the time being, directed of his habitual mask of frigid heartlessness.

And seeing that there was no other way of quieting him, the girl turned to the third man.

"Now Jimmy!" she said crisply. "Into that car—and be quick about it—and gag him!"

"If you do," her father foamed, "I'll have your life!"

A flourish of her weapons gained instant obedience.

She stepped up on the running board and shot a quick, searching glance at the face of the chauffeur.

"Straight ahead, my man!" she said. "Make for the nearest pass through those hills yonder, and don't delay unless you are anxious for trouble. Oh, you go!"

The car began to move. She swept the three men in the desert a mocking bow, jumped into the body of the car and slammed the door.

They made no effort to plead their cause and secure passage even as far as the edge of the desert; doubtless they knew too well the futility of that, she thought, as she settled back in a seat, chuckling with the memory of those three masks of dismay unmitigated.

It was not until five minutes later, when she straightened up from making Alan comfortable that she realized what had made them so content to abide by her will.

Then she heard their voices lifted together in a long, shrill howl that was quickly answered by fainter yells from a distant quarter of the desert, then by pistol popping and flashing some miles away, then by a growing rumble of galloping hoofs.

The night glasses in the car afforded her flashes of a body of several horsemen—some six or seven, she judged—making at top speed toward the spot where Marrophat, Hicks and Jimmy waited beside a beacon which they had built and lighted.

Half a dozen sentences exchanged with the chauffeur advised her that those were horsemen from the town of Meas who had charged themselves with the duty of avenging the death of Hopi Jim Slade.

A sardonic chuckle from within Trixie's gag goaded the girl into a sudden fury.

Exacting his utmost speed from the chauffeur, under penalty of her displeasure, she set herself to revive Alan.

With the aid of such stores of food and drink as the car carried, this was quickly enough accomplished.

Strangling with an overdose of brandy too little diluted with water, Alan sat up, grasped the conditions in a flash, and gained further information as he devoured sandwiches and emptied a canteen.

The mountain pass was now, he judged, a mile distant. The light on the hillside according to the chauffeur, was that of a prospector who had camped there temporarily. There was nothing, then, to be feared from that quarter, but solely from the rear—where the horsemen, having picked up Marrophat and his companions, had instituted hot pursuit, and were now strung out in a long, snaking line, three horsemen carrying a third farthermost—hips a mile and a half away, with a single rider the nearest, well within three-quarters of a mile.

Nobly mounted, this last came on like the wind, and in the space of a car with every stroke for his horse was trained to such going, when the car at last could only labor helplessly in dust and sand.

None the less, it had won to a point within a quarter of a mile from the pass before the horseman got within what he esteemed the proper range, and opened fire.

He fired thrice. His first shot winged wide, his second by ill-chance ripped through a rear tire of the car, thus placing upon it an additional handicap, while his third sought the chauffeur, as his hands flew up and he dropped from the saddle, drifted forward and lay by Alan's only shoe.

A long-range pistol duel was in progress before the car had covered half the remaining distance to the pass.

By the time it entered this last which proved to be a narrow ravine with towering side of crumbly earth and shale and broken rock, the pursuit was not a hundred yards behind, while the firing was well-nigh continuous.

Two hundred feet above the track two men were working with a hammer at some mysterious business—though none noticed them.

Only the chauffeur was aware of a woman running down the hillside at an angle, to intercept the car several hundred yards from the mouth of the pass.

As it drew near the spot where she paused, waving both hands frantically, the head of the pursuing party swept into the mouth of the ravine.

At the same time the chauffeur noticed that the two men on the hillside were following the woman pell-mell, throwing themselves down the slope with gigantic leaps and bounds.

And then a great explosion rent the peaceful hush of night—that ill then had been profaned by the pattering cracks of the revolver fusillade.

As the rear of dynamite subsided the entire side of the hill shifted and slid ponderously down, choking the way with debris to the depth of some thirty or forty feet, burying the leaders of the pursuit beyond hope of rescue.

Only a instant later the motor car jolted to a halt and Alan pulled himself together to find that Rose and Marcus were standing beside the door and jabbering joyful greetings, mixed with more or less incoherent explanations of the manner in which they had come to seek shelter for the night in the prospector's shack and, roused by the noise of firing and recognizing Alan in the car by the aid of spy-glasses, had with the prospector's aid hit upon this scheme of shooting a landslide in between the pursuit and its devoted quarry.

Hurt's Even the Circus

Floyd King, advance man for the Hagenbeck-Wallahe shows, soon to appear in Topeka, says that the dry town has more money than the wet town every time.

"Kansas is the best circus state in the Union," Mr. King said this week when he was in Topeka. "We can always be sure to get the price of admission in this state. This year it is especially so."

Mr. King says that the circus always does a better business in a dry town than it does in a wet town.

"We noticed the difference in Missouri," he said. "The receipts were better in a town that had gone dry than in a town that was still a salubrious where saloons were open. And business is better in Kansas than in Missouri."

"Let me give you an example. We showed in Crawford's life, Ind., this summer and that town was dry. It was dry in more ways than one this year, for the rains were scarce and crops had and it was apparently pushing on. Yet we showed to capacity crowds. A few days later we were into Shelby, Ind., where the streets are filled with one-sided saloons. Rains had been plentiful in this region, crops were fine and there was plenty of money. The streets were crowded with people at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, but our second section was delayed by a fire and we had to get our parade under way at 10 o'clock. By that time many of the men had gone into the saloons and spent their cash at the bar. They didn't have any desire left for the circus and their children wandered up and down the streets without any money and they didn't see the circus either. So we played to miserable crowds. If we see this whole game up and down the streets and across, we are not to be certified, and I want to tell you that all this talk about a town needing saloons and gambling houses is purest nonsense."

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat turns uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders comes from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in the blood, so longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THEY REPUDIATE
BOISE PENROSE

place their views before the voters of the state.

Walter L. Fisher, Taft's secretary of the interior, writes:

"The election of Gifford Pinchot as senator from Pennsylvania would be welcomed by the great majority of men of all parties throughout the country; his wonderfully efficient and disinterested public service are almost universally recognized. To Republicans especially his election would be a most encouraging demonstration of the unwillingness of the great party to tolerate the continued leadership of men like Penrose. It would be emphatic notice that honest, efficient and progressive leaders must be chosen if Republicanism is to appeal successfully to those who in the past have justly regarded the Republican party as the greatest political agency in this country for the accomplishment of economic and social progress."

Should Reward Pinchot

Henry L. Stimson, Taft's secretary of war says:

"Pinchot, as chief forester, virtually created the national forest service, through which those reserves are still administered. Its efficiency and success is the strongest kind of evidence as to the administrative ability of the man who established it. He is now entitled that great service which he has rendered to this nation, shall not be forgotten in the heat of his present controversies. In all my acquaintance I have hardly met a man who combines in one person in such measure the qualities of a lofty and uncompromising idealism with the energy and ability of a successful administrator."

Pinchot a Protectionist

Ogden Mills Reid and Herbert Parsons together declare:

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania have an opportunity this year to do a great service to the Republican party of the nation. They can help to restore the confidence of the Republicans of other states in the vitality and usefulness of the national organization and its capacity to rid itself of the corrupting and debasing elements which have fastened upon it."

"Self-preservation is the first law of nature. The Republicans of Pennsylvania owe it to themselves and to the Republicans of the nation to tear the mask off Boies Penrose and to prevent his ever holding office again as a Republican. They will deserve well of their country if they turn him down for the senate ship and elect Gifford Pinchot."

"Gifford Pinchot is a firm believer in the Republican doctrine of protection. His distinguished service under three Republican administrations on behalf of conservation and other great Republican policies contributed largely to the achievements of the Republican party. The election of such a man would not only free Republicanism in Pennsylvania and the country from the burden of Penrose, but would mean effective support for the cardinal principles of Republican doctrine."

RABBITS AND QUAIL

MAY NOW BE HUNTED

The open season for rabbits and quail opened today. There is an abundance of bunnies in this county, but quail are scarce. Fortunately for the sportsmen the game does not waste his time hunting the little cotton tails, but unfortunately for the sportsmen the game does devote much of his time and energies to destroying the few quail in the county.

Real sportsmen are in favor of a closed season for quail lasting at least five years with restoration of the covers by the state game commission from the hundreds of thousands of dollars gathered from hunters' license fees.

Hospital Campaign Extended
Closing Monday Night,
November 2nd.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, and to the fact that the solicitors are personally busy men, we find it necessary to extend this campaign until Monday night in order to thoroughly canvass the town and county. This will give all localities an opportunity to bear their share of the burden.

A Suggestion From The Committee:

To those who have not been called upon we respectfully urge that they send their subscription to George T. Bigler, Treasurer.

ARMEN DROP BOMBS ON
GERMAN STAFF OFFICERS

London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from a correspondent in the north of France under date of Friday says:

"French airmen from their base near Dunkirk today made reprisals on the Germans. A bomb-throwing air team, consisting of six biplanes, sailed away to the southeast for a house near Dixmude, where the German headquarters staff had been established after it had been driven pell mell by the naval gun fire from a big house near the coast. The new headquarters was a chalet in pleasantly wooded grounds."

"The aeroplane team carried 240 bombs. The machines flew one after another over the chalet and each dropped a number of the explosive missiles. Hardly had half a dozen of these fallen on the roof of the chalet before the slaterooming and masonry was hurled about and flames broke out in the building."

"The German staff ran to the doors and hid in the woods, and the aviators who had not previously flown over the chalet dropped bombs among the trees, where the Germans had secreted themselves. The entire team of flyers returned safely to their Dunkirk base in the evening."

A Merry Halloween Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Biesch, of Woodland, entertained a jolly crowd of little people on Halloween night for their children Earl Leira and Ardath Biesch. The evening was happily spent in games, music making of candy and a general good time. The children especially enjoyed the refreshments served by Mrs. Biesch. Those present were Violet Falcorer, Jesse Walker, Margaret Herbert E. the Bloom, Carolyn Bloom, Elva Bloom, Genevieve Mitchell, Lois Mitchell, Mildred Mitchell, Thelma Stewart, Elizabeth Woolridge, Mary Baker, Ceilia Baker, Mary Phoebe Vanner, John W. Vanner, Fred Herbert, and Alton Herbert and Allen Bloom. Mr. and Mrs. Biesch were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Peters.

GHOST PARTY HELD AT
WOODLAND FRIDAY NIGHT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Pickett, of Woodland, was the scene of a very special occasion, Friday night Oct. 30. The ghosts from all over the county gathered to celebrate the annual Halloween. The place was marked by each trying to outdo the other with their figures in which case it was well to be old, as the locking of the doors and leans were easy targets.

Later in the evening the party took on a more familiar air and by the time the good things to eat were ready to be served, every one looked quite natural and all due justice to the splendid array.

These present were Mr. and Mrs. Barr, Lee H. D. Fuller, C. Reed, Barker, Falconer, T. B. Walker, Walker, J. A. Palmer and G. L. Masdanes, Fuller, C. Reed, Maud Varner and Stewart, Misses Mitchell, Walker, Hull, Fred, Daisy, Stevens, Gingers, Lela, Miller, Albert, Palmer, Miam, Woolridge and Mable Young, Messrs. Snyder, Victor, W. J. Heath, Walker, P. H. Brown, W. C. Hartman and Johnson.

All joined heartily in the games and before we were aware the hours began to glow and the guests reluctantly departed having spent a most delightful evening.

A Guest.

L. C. BARRATT TELLS OF TROUBLE WITH PASSENGERS

The following letter from L. C. Barratt will prove interesting to a large number of citizens of Clearfield.

Hagerstown Oct. 20.

Editor of Progress:

A card went home to me, so I will write you a letter. I have stopped here with Perrett and Walters. I had trouble with them in Altoona. I got to Portford all right and then at Everett I stopped from 11 o'clock till 2:30, arguing so they bought tires. Then we went to Greencastle, staying this morning to Pagestown. I shot a little fire this morning and did not get a breakfast. When I stopped right at the station and went to a restaurant and got lunch.

When I got back they were gone and I went to the police station and had them arrested for the night. The sheriff, his son and a constable took the keys and the trial before the justice took from 1 to 4 o'clock. They had to be here and not go to their homes or go to jail.

Barratt was telling me that he threatened to do everything he could to see them out of the county and they were afraid.

L. C. Barratt.

DESTROYED POST CARDS

Postmaster W. F. Bellwood, of Bellwood, accused of burning post cards bearing the signature of Theodore Roosevelt and mailed from Oyster Bay to voters, is saying that they support Gifford Pinchot as well as other candidates on the Washington ticket, adding that they were destroyed and had been placed in a pile for court bids, claiming that these which had been perjury charges were separated in one pile but that one or two were not among them by mistake and were thrown into a pile with them. He says a was a mistake and was not done through any political motive.

Given No Time to Reform and Amalgamate After Being Flooded Out by The Opening of the Dykes and Canal by the Belgians—Denial That Verduin Has Been Destroyed—French Army Still Bars the Man to That City—Expect Germans to Be Driven From Belgian Coast Within a Week—Indications of a Retreat.

(By International News Service)
London, Nov. 2.—"The way to Bruges is now open to the allies, owing to the capture of the Roulois, and the Germans are digging trenches behind Ghent with feverish energy. To do this is to announce their retreat."

This statement is made in the Observer in a dispatch dated "near the Franco-Belgian frontier." The message continues:

German Loss Enormous
"Their (the German) losses have been enormous. A German officer captured yesterday estimates that there have been 150,000 killed or wounded since the occupation of Ostend in Northern Flanders alone. Whole batteries and battalions have been annihilated by the shell fire from the warships. Thousands have been drowned as the result of the opening of the dykes. In hand to hand fighting the German losses have far exceeded those of the allies. Thousands of bodies of Germans floating on the inland sea bear buyonet wounds."

Abandon Their Wounded
"Only the main roads and railroad tracks remain exposed above the flooded area. The shattered German regiments are being given no time to reform and amalgamate. They are abandoning their wounded, guns and transports. Unless their fleet comes out to create a diversion they will be driven from the Belgian coast within a week."

Verduin Not Destroyed
A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Paris says:
"It is officially announced that, contrary to the German statement that the town of Verduin had been destroyed, the fact is, it never has been struck by a single shell. Fort Doumont only was bombarded for twenty-four hours at long range and without any appreciable damage having been done."

"The French army still has the road to Verduin."

"Reports of German victory in the West of Angoulême and elsewhere are wholly false."

CONGRESSMAN WANGER SPEAKS FOR PINCHOT

Norristown, Nov. 2.—Irving P. Wanger, for eighteen years Republican member of congress from this district and the election of Gifford Pinchot to the United States senate, in a speech here Saturday night, he denounced the greedy manufacturers who have neglected the chance to solve the foreign trade opened by the European war thus they might yell calamity and work for Penrose.

Mr. Wanger said Pinchot is the only opponent of Penrose for whom Independents and Republicans should vote. He told of a letter he wrote to A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee, in which he said that Palmer was a Republican until he went to Stroudsburg to practice law. Wanger's letter asked Palmer to withdraw. He declared that Palmer has not always been a leader of movements for righteousness in politics, and said that since the reorganization movement in the Democratic party Palmer has become "the most arrogant boss in a generation."

National Republicans Declare He Should Be Defeated

TO RID PARTY OF DISGRACE

Praise for Gifford Pinchot From Men Who Have Always Stood High in the G. O. P. But Who Now See in Penroseism a Menace to Both the Party and the Country.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Boise Penrose goes before the people of Pennsylvania for election to the United States senate formally repudiated by the leaders of the national Republican party.

The spokesmen for the best element of the Republicans not only have urged the defeat of Penrose to relieve the party of further disgrace, such as Penroseism has brought on, but they have openly urged that the support of Gifford Pinchot by Republicans is the only way in which the national party can be saved.

Within the last three days have come the most noteworthy examples of this trend of real Republicans to free their party from the stigma of Penroseism.

Urges Penrose's Defeat

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war under President Taft; Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior under President Taft; and many other prominent Republicans have all urged the defeat of Penrose.

ELECTION RETURNS

CLEARFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

DEFEATS HUNTINGTON

A direct telegraph wire was installed in the Progress office today, which will furnish the people of Clearfield with the complete results of the election tomorrow. A moving picture stereopticon will flash the reports in the Progress' front window as fast as they are received. This service will start as soon as the Opera house and Y. M. C. A. close for the night and will continue till morning.

The local high school football team added another well earned victory to its credit Saturday at the Driving park when it defeated Huntington.

The visitors took a brace after being scored on in the first period and pushed the ball all the way to a number of spectacular touchdowns, but when on the Clearfield 7 yard line Coachman intercepted the pass which gave Clearfield the ball. From then on throughout the game the local boys had their opponents completely outplayed.

The game was really a thriller and spectators and workers alike were by the score and the score was in the hands of the Clearfield boys. The game was really a thriller and spectators and workers alike were by the score and the score was in the hands of the Clearfield boys.

MEAT FAMINE IS NOW THREATENED

Chicago Packers Prohibited from Slaughtering Cattle

WILL HIT EASTERN MARKETS

Order Made Necessary by Possibility of Spread of Foot and Mouth Disease—Railroads Enjoined from Hauling Livestock for Chicago and St. Louis and Points in the East.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Slaughtering cattle at the Union stock yards here and at the National stock yards, in East St. Louis, Ill., will cease after today, owing to the discovery of several cases "foot and mouth" disease. This drastic action was taken, not because the disease is presently epidemic, but because prompt precautionary measures are necessary. The order is expected to create a temporary meat famine in America.

Another order was issued to all railroads, notifying them to cease loading livestock for Chicago, St. Louis, and all eastern markets. All livestock in transit for these points will be diverted to other markets.

Small slaughtering plants in Chicago and Packingtown proper are not allowed to kill today. These rulings are a blow to the eastern markets, which are practically dependent on Chicago for cattle for slaughtering and for meat.

The bureau of animal industry sent here this morning an emergency order to the hoof and mouth disease, and for approval of the order by the board of health.

REFORMED DRUNKARD TELLS STORY OF LIFE

J. Arthur Schlichter, of Philadelphia, addressed the Bible class in the Trinity M. E. church yesterday morning at 9:30, spoke in the Presbyterian church at 10:30, at the opera house at 3:30 yesterday afternoon and in the West Side M. E. church last evening. These meetings were conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Schlichter thrilled his audience with his story. There was hardly a dry eye among all the men who heard him. His subject was, "My Strange Life." He was a minister's son. While at college he was invited by a girl to a party of six. She served whiskey and told him to drink it and not be a coward; it would make him feel good. That was his first social glass. He said: "Perhaps some men can take a glass now and then and leave it alone, but for God's sake don't risk it." He spent $50,000 for booze, and nineteen years was a vagabond drunkard. He was rescued by the Rev. Ranvire, at a time when he was taking 30 grains of morphine a day, and taken in charge by John Mackin-tree, of the Who So Ever Mission, of Philadelphia. It took three years to restore him to health and strength. At the end of that time he returned to his former home to find that his father had died of a broken heart and his wife had divorced him and remarried.

November 2, 1914

Good evening! You are one of those citizens who are expected to help destroy Penroseism in Pennsylvania; do your duty.

Vote for Moulthrop and honest legislation.

Do what you can to destroy the liquor traffic.

Make your vote count by voting for Pinchot.

It's rum against decency; on which side are you?

Go to the polls and vote against the rum element.

Vote early and give those who cannot do this a chance.

Vote for Pinchot and the defeat of the whiskey ring.

Fall weather isn't so awfully disagreeable, after all.

Thank fortune, there are no Crows in the Washington party aviary.

Let every voter go to the polls tomorrow and vote for honest government.

Clearfield citizens escaped fairly well from the celebrants of All Hallows'.

As you vote tomorrow you will be judged by your fellowmen in the years to come.

Rabbits may now be shot legally, and poor bunny will form the basis of the family pot for some weeks to come.

It's perfectly proper for people to look to ministers of the gospel for spiritual guidance—but not for political advice.

Vote for Woodward, Lippert and Boone and the overthrow of Penroseism in the lower house of the state legislature.

John Mitchell, the idol of the coal miners of Pennsylvania, is against Penroseism. Laborers can safely follow Mitchell's lead.

Germany is charged with having forced Turkey into the war. Germany appears to be willing to start a holy war to gain her ends.

The statement of the postoffice department that it is possible to send gold by mail applies only to editors of country newspapers, of course.

Vote for Guy B. Mayo and have a representative in congress who will do something more for his constituents than send them garden seeds.

That Carlisle Indian football team isn't gathering in many scalps this year. Is it possible that the cigarette habit has hit the Carlisle school?

Our sympathies go out to the more than five thousand citizens who have taken out hunters' licenses and who expect to get at least one piece of game each.

The president of the Pennsylvania Sportsman's association is accused of working his position in behalf of Penroseism. Oughtn't he to be hard to prove this charge.

The Pittsburg Times says Brumbaugh is "clean and high-minded." But how long would he keep clean after coming in contact with Penroseism at the state capital?

Why don't those French and English aviators sail over Berlin or other German towns and drop some bombs, just to show the Kaiser that they are as brave as his own aviators?

Great Britain is showing her friendship toward the United States by practically prohibiting American commerce on the high seas. Great Britain's statesmen appear to have lost what little wits they possessed before the war.

Vote a straight ticket by making an X to the right of the name Washington in the first column of the ballot and then mark an X to the right of each candidate for judge on the non-partisan ballot for whom you wish to vote.

THE LAST WORD

The election in Pennsylvania tomorrow will decide whether the people of Pennsylvania shall govern themselves or whether they will continue to be ruled by the political oligarchy which goes under the name of Penroseism. This is the first opportunity the voters of this state have had to vote direct for a United States senatorial candidate. Heretofore these candidates were elected by a legislature either controlled politically or bought outright by the aspirant to that office. Under the old method it was easy for a Quay or a Penrose to have himself elected to the United States senate.

This year the election of United States senator is in the hands of the voters, and the voters are free to cast their ballots for either of the three candidates—Pinchot, Penrose or Palmer. The responsibility for the result of the election will be upon the shoulders of the voters, therefore it is the duty of the voters to study carefully the merits of each candidate and the policies for which they stand. Of Gifford Pinchot it may be said without fear of contradiction that he is a clean, able and trustworthy man, who, if elected, will aid in the carrying out of the policies of the Progressive party—honest government, justice to all of the people and a protective tariff law.

Boies Penrose is the head of what remains of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. To him more than to any other man in the state must the blame attach for converting the Republican party into a mere machine for the advancement of the interests of monopolists and the beneficiaries of special privilege. Penrose has used the Republican party for his own aggrandizement and to defy the will of the people. He has entered into an alliance with the liquor dealers, the Standard Oil company and the oppressors of labor, and through these he hopes to receive the support of the saloon keepers, whiskey drinkers, dive keepers, grafters and the like at the polls tomorrow.

Every saloon keeper will vote for Penrose; every anti-rum citizen should vote for Pinchot. Every selfish employer of labor will vote for Penrose; every workingman should vote for Pinchot. Every grafter who hopes to profit from the continuation of Penroseism in this state will vote for Penrose; every taxpayer who does not want his money wasted should vote for Pinchot. Every hide-bound Republican who hopes to sometime share in the graft which follows in the path of Penroseism will vote for Penrose; every honest citizen, regardless of his political affiliations, should vote for Pinchot. Every opponent of good government will vote for Penrose; every man who believes in honest government should vote for Pinchot.

The liquor element will see that every liquor vote is gotten to the polls tomorrow and that every supporter of booze votes for Penrose and Brumbaugh. The rum element recognizes this as its most desperate battle, and the influence and money of the rum element will be used to get out the Penrose vote. But the fight will go against Penrose if the people who believe in the destruction of rum domination, in the preservation of honest government and in the overthrow of political bossism will go to the polls tomorrow and cast their ballots for Pinchot. The test of a man's citizenship will be shown tomorrow by his vote.

A PASSING PRAYER

The sea is blue today,
As never 'twas before;
Soft green the crowning trees
O'er top the sunny shore,
And all the world is good—
And I am twenty-four.

Oh, God, when I am old,
And all my world is gray,
And my poor heart is tired,
My eyes too dim for play,
Give back in dreams to me
The memory of today.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S BOMB STARTLES MILITARY MEN

New York, Nov. 2.—Political and military circles were exercised Saturday over the identity of the two nations whose war plans for selling American ports Colonel Roosevelt says he has seen. Colonel Roosevelt's reference to the "definite plans" of two nations against the ports of New York and San Francisco was made Friday in a speech at Princeton. His words were:

"I, myself, have seen the plans of two of the countries now engaged in the European war to invade the United States, capture our greater cities and hold them for ransom, considering that our standing army was too small to be dangerous. . . . I have seen the definite plans for the capture and ransoming of New York and San Francisco."

To a reporter who asked him about it Saturday, he said that his speech had been correctly quoted and made it plain that he had not the slightest modification to make on his statement, but he would not amplify it at the present time.

"That was my statement, substantially correct," said the Colonel. "I cannot take time to amplify it at present. In a week or so, however, I hope to make that statement the subject of more exact explanation."

One guess as to the Colonel's two nations was made everywhere at once—Japan. The other, by the only clue given in his speech, must also be picked from the half-dozen great powers also now at war.

Army officers at Washington expressed belief that Colonel Roosevelt referred to the general war strategy plans of foreign countries for use in case of war with the United States and not to any immediate plans. They point out that the war college has similar plans of attack against every country which the United States might possibly become involved.

EVERY VICIOUS ELEMENT IS BACK OF PENROSE

Philadelphia, Nov. 2, 1914.
Dear Sir:
This is addressed to you if you are a decent respectable citizen intending to support Penrose in this campaign believing that his election will improve business conditions. I am certain you are mistaken in your assumption that Penrose's election means business prosperity. But let us suppose for argument's sake you are right.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—It became known Saturday that influential friends of Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh several weeks ago warned him to get off the "Personal Liberty party ticket." These friends were fearful that Brumbaugh's candidacy would be seriously injured by such an open affiliation with the liquor interests.

The "Personal Liberty party" is the rum auxiliary of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, which nominated Brumbaugh as its candidate for governor. Brumbaugh asserted this was done without his knowledge, but he made no effort to withdraw his name until it was too late to do so.

One of the men who warned Brumbaugh against having anything to do with the "Personal Liberty party" was the Rev. J. A. Myer, a professor in Juniata College, at Huntingdon, Pa. Brumbaugh was formerly president of that institution.

"When stories first began to appear in the newspapers concerning the Personal Liberty party," said Doctor Myer, "I wrote to Doctor Brumbaugh and advised him to get off the ticket of that party. Doctor Brumbaugh wrote back that he had no knowledge of the actions of any set of men, other than the Republican party."

Predicts Big Victory For Washington Party

A magnificent victory for the Washington party and good government tomorrow is predicted by A. Nevin Detrich, chairman of the Washington party state committee.

Mr. Detrich's forecast gives Gifford Pinchot from 425,000 to 450,000 votes to snow Penrose under, and brings Vance C. McCormick to Philadelphia with a majority of 200,000 over Brumbaugh.

"Mr. Pinchot will be elected to the United States senate," says Mr. Detrich, in his statement, "by a vote of at least 42 1-2 per cent of the total vote cast, and his vote will likely reach 45 per cent. On the basis of 1,000,000 votes, this means that Mr. Pinchot will receive from 425,000 to 450,000 votes.

"Vance C. McCormick will be the next governor of Pennsylvania. His aggregate vote on the Washington and Democratic tickets will be so big as to bury the Republican-Personal Liberty candidate, and McCormick will come to Philadelphia ahead of Brumbaugh by 200,000.

"Penrose will be snowed under, and he knows it.

"The persistent campaign of the Washington party and the quiet determination of the independent citizenship of the state to wipe out every vestige of Penroseism received their final strength in the triumphant tour of Pennsylvania of Colonel Roosevelt. The Roosevelt trip proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that the same force which carried the state for him and his principles in 1912 will carry the state for the Roosevelt principles and the Washington party in 1914.

"The claims of Penrose and his assistants that they will receive any considerable number of votes in Pennsylvania are absurd. The Penrose cohorts will depend very largely upon old-time election day methods and hope for many votes through these channels, but repeaters, bought votes and stuffed clubs cannot undo the determination of the decent people of the state to kill Penroseism.

"Victory for decency is assured."

Penrose is a moral issue. To save our state from his corrupt and criminal combination is not a question of party politics but of civic decency.

But while we condemn Penrose and his associates, let us be fair. The worst feature of our present political condition is not Penrose. Neither is it the serious injury to the national prosperity of the state resulting from incapacity, graft and corruption at Harrisburg. It is not even the fact that the Penrose organization is opposing every effort to prevent corruption at elections, or the fact that at the instance of evil special interests it has defeated or mutilated every law proposed to give our workers, men, women and children that measure of protection and justice which they have secured elsewhere, not only in England, her colonies and in Europe, but in every other or great industrial state of the United States.

Bad as these things are, the curse of Penroseism is a moral degradation, resulting not from Penrose and his associates, but from the support which he and his corrupt organization receive from our leading citizens.

I have taught in the leading law school of this state for eighteen years. I have come into intimate personal contact with the best class of young men at the formative period of their lives, and have watched with keen interest the forces which build up and those which undermine character. I therefore speak out of an abundant practical experience when I say that if our sons are expected to live up to the virtues which we preach to them, our so-called respectable people must cease supporting crooked politics on the plea that crooked politicians in power will help their business.

To-day Penrose has behind him every vicious element in the community. This is to be expected. But it is a shame and a disgrace that he also has the support of dozens of men prominent in the business and professional world. These men think it beneath them to enter politics; but they lend their name as members of citizens' committees. Any man prominent in financial or in professional life who is also active in church and philanthropic work whose name is on one of these committees is doing more to bring religion into contempt and destroy the ideals of civic righteousness and personal honor in the community than hundreds of crooked politicians. He is using his very virtues to corrupt others.

It is true today, it always has, it always will be true that we can't Christ and practice the gospel of Christ and practice the gospel of Mammon.

Sincerely yours,
William Draper Lewis.

"Be silent!" the girl cried sharply. "I command here—if it's necessary to tell you."

There was a pause of astonishment. Then the old man broke out in exasperation that threatened to wax into fury. "Judith! What do you mean by this? Has it indeed come to this that my own daughter defies me to my face?"

"Apparently!" she shot back with a short laugh. "Judge for yourself!" "Have you forgotten your vow to me?"

"No. But I take it back and cancel it: that is my privilege, I believe. Silence!" she stormed, and he strove to gain his bearings. "Silence—do you hear?—or it will be the worse for you!"

As well command the sea to still its voice, her father raged like a mad man that he was, for the time being, directed of his habitual mask of frigid heartlessness.

And seeing that there was no other way of quieting him, the girl turned to the third man.

"Now Jimmy!" she said crisply. "Into that car—and be quick about it—and gag him!"

"If you do," her father roared, "I'll have your life!"

A flourish of her weapons gained instant obedience.

She stepped up on the running board and shot a quick, searching glance at the face of the chauffeur.

"Straight ahead, my man!" she said. "Make for the nearest pass through those hills yonder, and don't delay unless you are anxious for trouble. Off you go!"

The car began to move. She swept the three men in the desert a mocking bow, jumped into the body of the car and slammed the door.

They made no effort to plead their cause and secure passage even as far as the edge of the desert; doubtless they knew too well the futility of that, she thought, as she settled back in a seat, chuckling with the memory of those three masks of dismay unmitigated.

It was not until five minutes later, when she straightened up from making Alan comfortable that she realized what had made them so content to abide by her will.

Then she heard their voices lifted together in a long, shrill howl that was quickly answered by fainter yells from a distant quarter of the desert, then by pistol popping and flashing some miles away, then by a growing rumble of galloping hoofs.

The night glasses in the car afforded her flashes of a body of several horsemen—some six or seven, she judged—making at top speed toward the spot where Marrophat, Hicks and Jimmy waited beside a beacon which they had built and lighted.

Half a dozen sentences exchanged with the chauffeur advised her that those were horsemen from the town of Meas who had charged themselves with the duty of avenging the death of Hopi Jim Slade.

A sardonic chuckle from within Frise's gag goaded the girl into a sudden fury.

Exacting his utmost speed from the chauffeur, under penalty of her displeasure, she set herself to revive Alan.

With the aid of such stores of food and drink as the car carried, this was quickly enough accomplished.

Strangling with an overdose of brandy too little diluted with water, Alan sat up, grasped the conditions in a flash, and gained further information as he devoured sandwiches and emptied a canteen.

The mountain pass was now, he judged, a mile distant. The light on the hillside according to the chauffeur, was that of a prospector who had camped there temporarily. There was nothing, then, to be feared from that quarter, but solely from the rear—where the horsemen, having picked up Marrophat and his companions, had instituted hot pursuit, and were now strung out in a long, single file, three horsemen carrying a dead body farthermost—hips a mile and a half away, with a single rider the nearest, well within three-quarters of a mile.

Nobly mounted, this last came out like the wind, and in the space of a car with every stroke for his horse was trained to such going, when the car at last could only labor heavily in dust and sand.

None the less, it had won to a point within a quarter of a mile from the pass before the horseman got within what he esteemed the proper range, and opened fire.

He fired thrice. His first shot winged wide, his second by ill-chance ripped through a rear tire of the car, thus placing upon it an additional handicap, while his third sought the chauffeur, as his hands flew up and he dropped from the saddle, drifted forward and lay by Alan's only shoe.

A long-range pistol duel was in progress before the car had covered half the remaining distance to the pass.

By the time it entered this last which proved to be a narrow ravine with towering side of crumbly earth and shale and broken rock, the pursuit was not a hundred yards behind, while the firing was well-nigh ceasing.

Two hundred feet above the track two men were working with a pickaxe at some mysterious mine—though none noticed them.

"Straight Ahead, My Man!" She Said hundred yards from the mouth of the pass.

As it drew near the spot where she paused, waving both hands frantically, the head of the pursuing party swept into the mouth of the ravine.

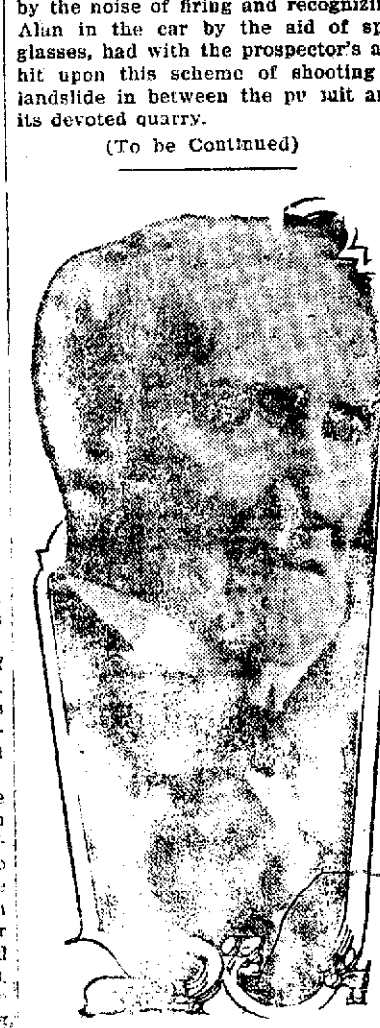

At the same time the chauffeur noticed that the two men on the hillside were following the woman pell-mell, throwing themselves down the slope with gigantic leaps and bounds.

And then a great explosion rent the peaceful hush of night—that ill then had been profaned by the pattering cracks of the revolver fusillade.

As the roar of dynamite subsided the entire side of the hill shifted and slid ponderously down, choking the way with debris to the depth of some thirty or forty feet, burying the leaders of the pursuit beyond hope of rescue.

Only a instant later the motor car jolted to a halt and Alan pulled himself together to find that Rose and Marcus were standing beside the door and jabbering joyful greetings, mixed with more or less incoherent explanations of the manner in which they had come to seek shelter for the night in the prospector's shack and, roused by the noise of firing and recognizing Alan in the car by the aid of spy-glasses, had with the prospector's aid hit upon this scheme of shooting a landslide in between the pursuit and its devoted quarry.

Hurt's Even the Circus

Floyd King, advance man for the Hagenbeck-Wallahe shows, soon to appear in Topeka, says that the dry town has more money than the wet town every time.

"Kansas is the best circus state in the Union," Mr. King said this week when he was in Topeka. "We can always be sure to get the price of admission in this state. This year it is especially so."

Mr. King says that the circus always does a better business in a dry town than it does in a wet town.

"We noticed the difference in Missouri," he said. "The receipts were better in a town that had gone dry than in a town that was still a salubrious where saloons were open. And business is better in Kansas than in Missouri."

"Let me give you an example. We showed in Crawford's life, Ind., this summer and that town was dry. It was dry in more ways than one this year, for the rats were scarce and the birds and bees apparently pushing on. Yet we showed to capacity crowds. A few days later we went into Shelby, Ind., where the streets are filled with one saloon a block. Rats had been plentiful in this region, crops were fine and there was plenty of money. The streets were crowded with people at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, but our second section was delayed by a fire and we did not get our parade until a late hour. By that time many of the men had gone into the saloons and spent their cash at the bar. They didn't have any desire left for the circus and their children wandered up and down the streets without any money and they didn't see the circus either. So we played to miserable crowds. If we had seen this whole game up and down the streets and across, we would have been satisfied, and I want to tell you that all this talk about a town needing saloons and gambling houses is purest nonsense."

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat turns uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders comes from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in the blood, so longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THEY REPUDIATE

place their views before the voters of the state.

Walter L. Fisher, Taft's secretary of the interior, writes:

"The election of Gifford Pinchot as senator from Pennsylvania would be welcomed by the great majority of men of all parties throughout the country; his wonderfully efficient and disinterested public service are almost universally recognized. To Republicans especially his election would be a most encouraging demonstration of the unwillingness of the great party to tolerate the continued leadership of men like Penrose. It would be emphatic notice that honest, efficient and progressive leaders must be chosen if Republicanism is to appeal successfully to those who in the past have justly regarded the Republican party as the greatest political agency in this country for the accomplishment of economic and social progress."

Should Reward Pinchot

Henry L. Stimson, Taft's secretary of war says:

"Pinchot, as chief forester, virtually created the national forest service, through which those reserves are still administered. Its efficiency and success is the strongest kind of evidence as to the administrative ability of the man who established it. He is now entitled that great service which he has rendered to this nation, shall not be forgotten in the heat of his present controversies. In all my acquaintance I have hardly met a man who combines in one person in such measure the qualities of a lofty and uncompromising idealism with the energy and ability of a successful administrator."

Pinchot a Protectionist

Ogden Mills Reid and Herbert Parsons together declare:

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania have an opportunity this year to do a great service to the Republican party of the nation. They can help to restore the confidence of the Republicans of other states in the vitality and usefulness of the national organization and its capacity to rid itself of the corrupting and debasing elements which have fastened upon it."

"Self-preservation is the first law of nature. The Republicans of Pennsylvania owe it to themselves and to the Republicans of the nation to tear the mask off Boies Penrose and to prevent his ever holding office again as a Republican. They will deserve well of their country if they turn him down for the senate ship and elect Gifford Pinchot."

"Gifford Pinchot is a firm believer in the Republican doctrine of protection. His distinguished service under three Republican administrations on behalf of conservation and other great Republican policies contributed largely to the achievements of the Republican party. The election of such a man would not only free Republicanism in Pennsylvania and the country from the burden of Penrose, but would mean effective support for the cardinal principles of Republican doctrine."

RABBITS AND QUAIL MAY NOW BE HUNTED

The open season for rabbits and quail opened today. There is an abundance of bunnies in this county, but quail are scarce. Fortunately for the sportsmen the game does not waste his time hunting the little cotton tails, but unfortunately for the sportsmen the game does devote much of his time and energies to destroying the few quail in the county.

Real sportsmen are in favor of a closed season for quail lasting at least five years with restoration of the covers by the state game commission from the hundreds of thousands of dollars gathered from hunters' license fees.

Hospital Campaign Extended
Closing Monday Night,
November 2nd.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, and to the fact that the solicitors are personally busy men, we find it necessary to extend this campaign until Monday night in order to thoroughly canvass the town and county. This will give all localities an opportunity to bear their share of the burden.

A Suggestion From The Committee:

To those who have not been called upon we respectfully urge that they send their subscription to George T. Bigler, Treasurer.

ARMEN DROP BOMBS ON
GERMAN STAFF OFFICERS

London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from a correspondent in the north of France under date of Friday says:

"French airmen from their base near Dunkirk today made reprisals on the Germans. A bomb-throwing air team, consisting of six biplanes, soared away to the southeast for a house near Dixmude, where the German headquarters staff had been established after it had been driven pell mell by the naval gun fire from a big house near the coast. The new headquarters was a chalet in pleasantly wooded grounds."

"The aeroplane team carried 240 bombs. The machines flew one after another over the chalet and each dropped a number of the explosive missiles. Hardly had half a dozen of these fallen on the roof of the chalet before the slaterooming and masonry was hurled about and flames broke out in the building."

"The German staff ran out of doors and hid in the woods, and the aviators who had not previously flown over the chalet dropped bombs among the trees, where the Germans had secreted themselves. The entire team of flyers returned safely to their Dunkirk base in the evening."

A Merry Halloween Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Blesh, of Woodland, entertained a jolly crowd of little people on Halloween night for their children Earl Leira and Ardath Blesh. The evening was happily spent in games, thus making of candy and a general good time. The children especially enjoyed the refreshments served by Mrs. Blesh. Those present were Violet Falcorer, Jesse Walker, Margaret Herbert E. the Bloom, Carolyn Bloom, Elva Bloom, Genevieve Mitchell, Lois Mitchell, Mildred Mitchell, Thelma Stewart, Elizabeth Woolridge, Mary Baker, Ceilia Baker, Mary Phoebe Vanner, John W. Vanner, Fred Herbert, and Alton Herbert and Allen Bloom. Mr. and Mrs. Blesh were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Peters.

GHOST PARTY HELD AT
WOODLAND FRIDAY NIGHT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Pikes, of Woodland, was the scene of a very special occasion, Friday night Oct. 30. The ghosts from all near gathered to celebrate the annual Halloween. The place was marked by each trying to outdo the other with their figures in which case it was well to be old, as the locking of the doors and leans were easy targets.

Later in the evening the party took on a more familiar aspect and by the time the good thurs to eat were ready to be served, every one looked quite natural and all due justice to the splendid array.

These present were Mr. and Mrs. Barr, Lee H. D. Fuller, C. Reed, Barker, Falconer, T. B. Walker, Walker, J. A. Palmer and Grattan Meddane, Fuller, C. Reed, Maud Varner and Stewart, Misses Mitchell, Walker, Hull, Fred, Daisy, Stevens, Gingers, Lela, Miller, Albert, Palmer, Miam, Woolridge and Mable Young, Messrs. Snyder, Victor, W. J. Heath, Walker, P. H. Brown, W. C. Hartman and Johnson.

All joined heartily in the games and before we were aware the hours began to glow and the guests reluctantly departed having spent a most delightful evening.

A Guest.

L. C. BARRATT TELLS OF TROUBLE WITH PASSENGERS

The following letter from L. C. Barratt will prove interesting to a large number of citizens of Clearfield.

Hagerstown Oct. 20.

Editor of Progress:

A card went home to me, so I will write you a letter. I have stopped here with Perrett and Walters. I had trouble with them in Altoona. I got to Portland all right and they at Everett. I stopped from 11 o'clock till 2:30, during so they bought tires. Then we went to Greencastle, staying this morning to Pagestown. I shot a little fire this morning and did not get a breakfast. When I stopped at night the attendant went to a restaurant and got lunch.

When I got back they were gone and I went to the police station and had them arrested for the theft of the keys and the trial before the justice here from 1 to 4 o'clock. They had to be here and I had their tires changed.

Barratt was feeling pretty bad and threatened to do everything he could. I saw them on the square and they were arrested.

L. C. Barratt.

BELLWOOD POSTMASTER DESTROYED POST CARDS

Postmaster W. F. Bellwood of Bellwood, accused of burning post cards bearing the signature of Theodore Roosevelt and mailed from Oyster Bay to voters, is saying that they support Gifford Pinchot as well as other candidates on the Washington ticket, adding that they were destroyed and had been placed in a pile for court bids, claiming that these which had been perjured and were destroyed in one pile but that one or two were not among them by mistake and were thrown into a pile.

He says a was accused and was not done through any political motive.

Boies will do both. Vote for him.
